Archaeological Sensitivity - Much of the Town of Malta is considered to be archaeologically sensitive. Disturbance of undeveloped land may require review by the State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO).

Floodplains - Presence of floodplains can be determined using FEMA floodplain maps and the County GIS mapping tool. NYS Building Code has specific requirements for building in a floodplain, please check with Town Code Enforcement to ensure you are designing for the right criteria.

Historic structures - Changes to structures and features listed as historic on State or Federal registers require New York State Office of Parks, Recreation and Historic Preservation (SHPO) review. Those listed as local landmarks require Malta Historic Preservation Review Commission (HPRC) review. Those listed as local landmarks as well as on State or Federal registers require separate approvals by SHPO and HPRC.

Wetlands - Wetlands may be regulated by NYS Department of Conservation (DEC) or Army Corps of Engineers or both. If wetlands are present or within 100 feet of proposed soil disturbing activities, tree cutting or herbicide use, verification by the regulating agency must be obtained. A written determination is required as to which regulations apply and whether permits for the disturbance are required. Permits must be obtained prior to commencing work. To determine if wetlands are present, you may use the County GIS on-line tool. Wetland verification may require a site visit by trained wetland delineators.

Criteria for Issuing Use Variance and Area Variances

The following has been prepared to assist property owners seeking a variance from the Malta Zoning Ordinance.

Article 16 of the Town Law states that the Zoning Board of Appeals may grant a variance where an applicant can show that “unnecessary hardships” or “practical difficulties” result from carrying out the strict letter of the zoning ordinance. Over the years, the courts have divided variances into two discrete parts – use variances and area variances. The “unnecessary hardships” test applies to use variances and the “practical difficulty” test applies to area variances. The test criteria for each type of variance are specifically listed in Town Law as discussed below.

Use Variance (Article 16, Section 267-b.2)

No use variance maybe granted by the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) without a showing by the applicant that the zoning regulations have caused unnecessary hardship. In order to prove such unnecessary hardship the applicant must demonstrate for each and every permitted use under the zoning regulations for the particular district where the property is located that;

- 1) The applicant cannot realize a reasonable return. The lack of return must be substantial as demonstrated by competent financial evidence;
- 2) The alleged hardship relating to the property in question is unique and does not apply to substantial portion of the district or neighborhood;
- 3) The requested used variance will not alter the essential character of the neighborhood, and
- 4) The alleged hardship has not been self-created.

Area Variance (Article 16, Section 267-b.3)

For an area variance, the applicant must demonstrate that:

- 1) No undesirable change in the character of the neighborhood or detriment to nearby properties will result;
- 2) Benefit sought by the applicant cannot be achieved by a feasible alternate method;
- 3) The requested area variance is not substantial;
- 4) The proposed variance will not have an adverse effect or impact on the physical or environmental conditions in the neighborhood or district; and
- 5) The alleged difficulty was not self-created.

These five (5) factors shall be relevant to the decision of the ZBA, but shall not necessarily preclude the granting of the variance.
